Industry Tours

Tour 1: Riley Art Glass Studio

Take a tour of Riley Art Glass Studio and learn about the art of glass blowing. The studio is a partnership of two brothers, Charles and Michael, specializing in art glass creations using age old glass blowing techniques. They work with what is known as "soft glass," meaning they use a furnace to heat up raw materials to 2200 degrees F to create their own glass. They will have ornaments with several new colors available for the Christmas season. MAXIMUM OF 20 PEOPLE.

Tour 2: Oaklawn Park

Take a tour of Oaklawn Park - home of Arkansas horse racing and electronic gaming. Tour the horse racing area and the new electronic gaming section and ask questions of Oaklawn employees. Participants must be 21 years of age.

*You may sign up to attend a tour when you register for the conference (or you may go back and make changes if you have already registered).

Sponsors and Exhibitors:

You are invited to showcase your company at the 22nd annual AATYC conference to be held October 17-19, 2010, at the Hot Springs Convention Center in Hot Springs, Arkansas. The conference continues to be a success with more than 750 statewide educators, presidents and chancellors, trustees, and other decision makers attending in 2009.

We are offering many opportunities for your company to support AATYC, to showcase your services and to connect with potential customers. We strive to give sponsors the highest possible profile and maximum "face time" opportunities.

Please click on the contract below for detailed information about showcasing your company at our conference. If you have any questions, please contact Collin Callaway at This e-mail address is being protected from spambots. You need JavaScript enabled to view it .
